BOER COLONEL WINS.

Arthur Lynch Elected to Represent Galway in Parliament.

London dispatches state that Col.
Arthur Lynch's triumphant election to the House of Commons from Galway, succeeding Horace Plunkett, has caused intense chagrin among the Ministerialists, who bitterly resent this expression of Irish sympathy with the Boers.
Lynch declares that he intends to take his seat when Parliament meets, his position apparently being that he merely acted as a newspaper correspondent with the Boers.

There was a great celebration in honor of Lynch's victory in Galway, the entire city being illuminated. The Nationalists paraded in large numbers. Even in Paris, where Col. Lynch is now residing, the news of his election attracted considerable attention, and several newspapers published his portrait as a Boer Colonel. He said Saturday that he does not expect to be molested when he goes to England at the opening of Parliament.
He thinks his election significant, as showing that the Irish party is united, and he has reasons to believe Ireland is on the eve of obtaining a satisfactory home rule measure. Regarding South Africa, Col. Lynch said he had received information which convinced him that the war would end within three months by a settlement securing to the Boers autonomy on the Australian model.

Colonel Arthur Lynch spent the fall of 1900 in the United States lecturing.
He received much attention at that time in New York City from Irish patriots and friends of the Boer cause. He and the Second Irish Brigade took part in the second engagement at Elandslaagte, which "Tommy Atkins" has nicknamed "Ell-an-Slaughter," and in an interview he described one of his war experiences, an incident of that battle.

"Under General Louis Botha we went down to attack the English. I took part of my brigade of 1,500—about fifty men—on the most advanced kopje, where the English attacked us with rifle fire, supported by three cannon. I ordered my men to another part of the field. We had to pass over a neck where we were in plain view of the English gunners, about three hundred yards away. I decided to order the men to run the gauntlet singly. In this way we raced over the neck at full speed. Just as fast as each man appeared the English dropped shells with marvellous accuracy. Two horses were killed and one shrapnel burst right over my head. I felt my gun to make sure that I was alive, but nothing worse had happened than that I was nearly thrown out of my saddle by the violent spring which my horse had made.

"The fact that I am here speaks volumes for the bad shooting of the English.
I had rather run the gauntlet of a whole regiment of English than of ten Boers."

MADDEN'S OPENING.

The friends of Mike Madden and Tim Kenney gathered in large numbers last Wednesday evening to celebrate the opening of his new and handsome grocery at Tenth and Walnut streets. Besides the hundreds from this city many came from Indiana, and during the evening all were seated at tables heavily laden with all the good things of the season, which were partaken of with zest, while an orchestra discoursed the popular airs of the day. The entire affair was voted by all present one of the most enjoyable they had ever attended, and all departed wishing the genial host uninterrupted success in his new house.

FEAST OF ST. CECILIA.

The feast of St. Cecilia was fittingly observed at St. Cecilia's church Sunday.
The exercises began with solemn high mass in the morning and ended with Festal vespers in the evening, when Very Rev. Thomas Hayes, of Bowling Green, preached an impressive sermon.
Large congregations attended both services.

NOW WITH BAT.

John Wahl, well known all over the city, has taken the position held by late Henry Feldhaus with Bat Fuglein on Third street, where his friends are calling upon him in numbers.

Yet not especially conspicuous as one of the season's novelties in trimming, but in the fine cut beads and tiny spangles it is used. Some of the passementerie bands are beautifully fine, both in design and quality, and then there are bands of fine net with edges to match, patterned with floral designs done in tiny spangles.

The variety of gimps surpasses anything we have ever had before, and this again is owing to the clearer combinations of contrasts. For example, there is a gimp varied by lace and chiffon medallions, the chiffon embroidered in Persian colors or in black and white. The gimp itself is often in flower designs which give it the appearance of embroidery.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

The death occurred on Thursday of the Very Rev. William Moloney, Rathkeale.
J. H. Peard, who is so well known in sporting circles, has resigned his position as veterinary surgeon to the Cork Rural District Council.

There is not a single case for trial at the coming winter assizes in Galway from the county of Galway, a very satisfactory and creditable condition of things.

A pastoral letter from the Most Rev.
Dr. Gaffney with reference to the proposed new Cathedral at Mullingar was read in all the churches of Meath on Sunday.

One of the wildest storms experienced in Ireland for many years prevailed two weeks ago. Great damage was done in all parts of the country, and a number of lives were lost.

At a very largely attended meeting held in New Tipperary, John Dillon, in the course of an important speech, strongly condemned Horace Plunkett's candidature for Galway.

At a meeting of the Clonakilly Urban Council some discussion took place on the question of flax-growing in the district, which was said to be particularly suitable for that purpose.

On Sunday William Redmond, M.P., accompanied by Alderman Joyce, M. P. of Limerick, addressed a large meeting under the auspices of the local branch of the United Irish League at Scariff, County Clare.

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of Thomas Cunningham, aged thirty-four, who died on Tuesday as the result of a fall received in the City of Dublin Distillery, Great Brunswick street.

Coroner De Courcy and a Limerick jury held an inquest on the body of a woman named Esther Corbett, aged sixty, whose body was found in the Shannon the previous evening. The jury found a verdict of accidental drowning.

The inland revenue authorities have threatened to take legal action against the Arklow Harbor Commissioners for the recovery of $100 income tax. The Harbor Commissioners have allowed the matter to stand over until the question of liability is settled.

T. W. Russell, M. P., on Monday night addressed a crowded meeting at Derruck, North Antrim. In opening his speech he said that every successive meeting of the six he had addressed in North Antrim had been more successful than its predecessor.

In the Southern Police Court in Dublin George Brooks was fined $250 or six months' imprisonment for being the occupier of premises used for the purpose of betting. Stephen Walsh, for assisting in the management of the house, was fined $100 or three months' imprisonment.

At Corofin petty sessions Andy Hehir, who is notorious for his escapes from Ennis and Limerick prisons and adventures subsequently, though pursued by the police for three months in Clare, was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment for failing to observe the conditions of his ticket-of-leave.

The Belfast Coroner held an inquest on the body of Sarah Kearns, whose husband is charged with causing her death.
Medical testimony was to the effect that death was due to rupture of the spleen.
The jury found accordingly and attached no blame to any person. It is probable that the accused man will now be discharged.

A shocking burning accident, unhappily involving the death of Mrs. John Foley, occurred at Roslevan, near Ennis.
Her husband had retired for the night, and when putting out the lamp her clothing caught fire with the above sad result, despite all efforts to save her life.
She was forty-five years old and left a young wife.

By the death of P. J. Forde, J. P., Cork has been deprived of a kindly and worthy citizen. The deceased gentleman had been in indifferent health for some time past and recently it became painfully evident that the end was near. The sad event took place at his residence on Friday and the intelligence was received with feelings of genuine regret by his fellow-citizens.

A serious fire broke out at Nenagh on Saturday evening. A house in River lane, which is close to the Great Southern & Western railway station, took fire and after a short time the adjoining houses were also in a blaze. The constabulary, with the assistance of the town people, rendered efficient service in quelling the conflagration. The property belongs to a Mr. Gleeson and the damage is estimated at $2,500.

A sad fatality occurred within about five miles of Sligo, by which a respectable farmer named Bartle Keaveney lost his life. Deceased was driving home from Sligo market on a post cart, owned and driven by a man named Michael Conry. At a place midway between Sooney and Glau church, where there is a steep hill with the road unprotected at each side, the horse and cart were precipitated over the side into a deep dyke.
The cart fell on poor Keaveney, who died shortly after being extricated.

William Fitzmaurice, of Ballydonohue Cottage, Glin, has just received from Rome the pleasing intelligence that his second son, Edmund James, has in addition to securing the gold medal for excellent answering in all subjects obtained the degree of Bachelor of Theology. This is most creditable for one who is barely twenty years of age. Previous to repairing to the Eternal City this student, who is a nephew of Dr. Fitzmaurice, Lord Bishop of Erie, pursued a successful course of studies at Louvain and also at St. Front.

A painfully sudden death took place at Legacurry, near Newtownstewart, on Saturday. While two men named Doherty were driving along the road they met a man named Patrick McGlinchy, who was leaning on his umbrella. The latter said he had a weak turn. He then sat down until Doherty was ready to assist him into the cart. In a few minutes, however, McGlinchy was dead, the cause of death being heart disease. He had been in America for forty years and returned to Ireland about seven years ago. The Coroner did not consider an inquest necessary.

An extraordinary outrage is reported from Palleskenry, about twelve miles west of Limerick. It appears that some person or persons cut open the stomachs of two heifers the property of a respectable farmer named Thomas Coyne, residing at Ballycathane. The alleged outrage was reported to the police and the place was visited by County Inspector Hayes, of Limerick, and District Inspector Morley, of Adare. Coyne is described as in-offensive and industrious, and no motive can be suggested for the injury to his cattle. The people round Palleskenry repudiate the outrage in which has hitherto been a most peaceable and crimeless district.

The death of the Rev. Cors. O'Sullivan, of Dromariffe, in the diocese of Kerry, removes a member of one of the oldest and most respected Kerry families and a highly esteemed minister of the church.
He had a striking collegiate career, and during the thirty-three years he spent in the ministry he proved one of the most active priests in the diocese. In every parish in which he was stationed he labored zealously for the spiritual and temporal welfare of his flock, while works of God commanded all the energies he possessed. Kindly and charitable he was beloved by his people and his clerical conferrers, and this was amply attested at his funeral obsequies.

A sensation was caused in Clonmel by the suicide of a soldier named John Burke, of the Leinster regiment. It appears Burke, who was a powerful man, recently returned from South Africa and went on leave to his native place, Carrick, in his full war-paint. He was returning to Birr from Carrick on Tuesday, for a ticket to Thurles was found in his possession. At Clonmel station he went into the closet, and evidently planned his own self-destruction in a most deliberate manner, for he took the putties from his legs, tied them together in a long rope, made a firm noose round his neck, and affixing the other end overhead, launched himself into eternity. A porter entering the closet early next morning was horrified to find the body of the unfortunate man suspended inside.
He raised the alarm. The body was cut down and handed over to the police, who conveyed it to the morgue. It is said that Burke had over-stayed his leave by five days.

FEARED DISGRACE.

Short in His Accounts Stuart Young Commits
Suicide.

The citizens of Louisville were shocked Wednesday afternoon when it was rumored that Stuart Young, ex-City Treasurer, was short in his accounts, and the news that he had committed suicide latter sent a thrill of horror all over the city. For some days previous he had avoided making the transfer of his office to his successor, and it is believed that the fact of his defalcation becoming known through the newspapers drove him to the terrible deed. Shortly after 7 o'clock his dead body was found on Nelson street, near the river, where he had shot himself through the head. The amount of his defalcation is not yet known, but it is feared it will reach $25,000.

An Alabama man climbed to the top of a tree this week and committed suicide by taking poison.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Only one division meets the coming week.

Division 3 meets Monday night at Nelligan's Hall Nineteenth and Portland avenue.

The members of both degree teams are urged to meet at Hibernian Hall tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Providence Hibernian enthusiasts are said to be actively advocating the formation of a new division in the North End.

Officer Tom Fitzgibbons and James Furey added greatly to the pleasure of Tuesday night's meeting by their singing.

Capt. Jerry Hallahan was in the city Wednesday evening, and with Bob Mitchell attended the meeting of Division 4.

Before the close of the year Division 2 of Manchester expects to have over 200 members, making it one of the strongest in New Hampshire.

The sympathy of every Hibernian in Louisville goes out to James Wolf, of Division 4, who this week sustained the loss of his most estimable wife.

The Hibernians gave the grandest and most successful ball that ever took place in Pawtucket on Thanksgiving eve. Mayor Fitzgerald was Chairman of the committee that made the arrangements.

All members of the order who can do so should accompany the degree teams to Jeffersonville next Tuesday night.
Those who go will meet at Fourteenth and Main and take the 7:30 train.

County President Keenan was somewhat disappointed that there was not a larger attendance Tuesday night, as the entertainment given by Division 1 was one that should have filled even the Auditorium.

There will be a big initiation by Division 1 in Jeffersonville next Tuesday night, and all who attend from Louisville will have a jolly good time, as special preparations are being made for their entertainment.

Providence Hibernians are jubilant over the success of Division 18, which closed its charter list Sunday. The four degrees will be conferred in December, and visitors will be present from all the local divisions and Fall River.

John E. Browne, the Twelfth-street grocer, disappointed many Tuesday night. There was a general desire to hear him play his repertoire of Irish airs upon his flute, but he kept it well concealed till all but a few departed. When it was brought forth there were several horns and jigs danced by Maurice Healy.
The lecture delivered Tuesday night by Hon. Matt O'Doherty was the most interesting as well as instructive ever heard in Hibernian Hall. For two hours he held his hearers spellbound, and every one would have enjoyed listening to him for two hours longer. His words about Ireland were inspiring and elicited the heartiest applause, but equally so were his descriptions of the famous places visited on the continent. Those who failed to hear him missed a treat that will not be repeated for many a day.

EXPIRED SUDDENLY.

Thomas Bannon, a well known young man of the West End, expired suddenly Tuesday at the home of his parents, Thirty-fourth and Rudd avenue. For a few days he had been complaining, but was thought to be getting better, and his death was a severe shock to his many friends. His funeral took place Thursday morning from the Church of Our Lady in Portland, and was very largely attended.

SERIOUS INJURY.

John Kearns, employed in the L. & N. shops, met with a serious accident Tuesday. While at work his right hand was caught in the machinery, resulting in the loss of the forefinger. Dr. Griffiths dressed the injured member. It will be some time before he can return to work.

CARPENTERS.

The Louisville carpenters voted unanimously this week for Peter J. McGuire, of Philadelphia, their National Secretary.
His interests here were ably cared for by Thomas Reagan.

An eccentricity in millinery is the manner in which wings are used, all previous arrangements being reversed. The points now turn down and lie flat instead of standing perky upright or turn toward the front or tucked under the brim, lying on the hair, or any other way that never was seen before.

The hats of the season are not only light as to material and finish, but are so as to weight, and for the first time in some years the winter chapeau is a thing to be borne with comfort and convenience. There is not a multiplicity or adornment. If the hat looks well and is becoming with little trimming, then it is adopted.

"He has told me he loved me," said the fair girl confidently, "but I don't know whether to marry him or not."
"Don't you think he tells the truth?"
"I am sure he does his best to tell the truth. But, you see, he works in the weather bureau at Washington."

The giddy tourist from London was trying to take a medium-sized rise out of Pat.

"Pat," said he, "what is the meaning of the word nothing?"
"Sure I can't explain it, but ye'll find it in the place where yer brains ought to be!"

Sardines broiled in a chafing dish are nice for Sunday night suppers. Use just enough of the oil in the box to cover the bottom of the dish and keep the fish from sticking. When they are browned on both sides, sprinkle liberally with lemon juice and serve hot.

FATHER CROWLEY

Apologizes to Cardinal Martinelli and Archbishop Feehan.

Announcement was made Thursday by Thomas Moran, attorney for Archbishop Feehan, of Chicago, that the sentence of excommunication pronounced against Father Jeremiah J. Crowley would be recalled within a few days. This is expected to put an end to the case against the deposed priest, and the injunction proceedings begun against him to prevent his worship in the Cathedral of the Holy Name will be withdrawn. Attorney Moran said:

"Some days ago Father Crowley addressed a communication to His Eminence Cardinal Martinelli. This led to a further consideration of the matter by the Cardinal, with the result that Father Crowley again addressed His Eminence, as follows:

"Your Eminence: To save the honor of our beloved church and to repair the scandal I may have given to our faithful Catholic people, I sincerely regret whatever I may have said disrespectful to Your Eminence and to the Most Reverend Archbishop of Chicago, and I also retract anything that I may have either said or written which could not be approved by the Catholic Church."

"JEREMIAH CROWLEY."
"The Cardinal thereupon further advised with the Archbishop, and as soon as the details are attended to, which will be within a day or two, the sentence of excommunication which was pronounced against Father Crowley will be recalled."

THEATRICALS.

"Lost in the Desert," which comes to the Avenue next week, is a melodrama, with startling effects, in four acts, by Owen Davis. The piece is lavishly staged and produced under the personal direction of the author, which means that a careful and praiseworthy performance is the result. The fire scene at the close of the first act is one of the most thrilling ever witnessed on the local stage and the tableau that follows is very pretty and well conceived.

The famous "Ramblers," with one of the most attractive bills of the season, will be next week's offering at the Buckingham. With this gigantic burlesque company will appear thirty-five bright stars of the vaudeville stage, headed by dainty Elsie Knapp and Robert Mack, the celebrated Gus and Maude Sohke, George Scanlon and Pearl Stevens, the Major Sisters, all presenting features new to the new to the local stage. With the Ramblers come Lutes brothers, Clarence and William, the twentieth century marvels, this being their first appearance here, and the harmony and mirth-provoking Bijou Comedy Four. Besides the splendid olio there will be presented two hilarious burlesques, "A Summer Rehearsal" and "The Tally Ho Club."

An excellent show is assured the Temple's patrons next week, when the Mc-fert Stock Company will present Charles Dickson's comedy drama, "Three In-cogs." This is one of the most highly amusing plays ever written and has delighted thousands of people everywhere the production has been seen. Presented in this city for the first time, it should prove an excellent drawing card at popular prices. The vaudeville bill for the week is an unusually strong one, and will
